THERE'S pain in change and there's pain in moving forward, but we have to move on because life is not static, so says South Africa's elegant talk show host Felicia Mabuza-Suttle about her move to e.tv.

The authentic talk show host, who dramatically left the struggling SABC after she was made an irresistible offer by free to air e.tv, will this week Tuesday air her first show on e.tv at 9 pm with a repeat on Friday at 1.30 pm.

Mabuza-Suttle will celebrate her new season of Felicia On e with an in-depth interview with world-renowned talk show host, Larry King, featuring a sensational and highly entertaining music show of our country's prolific playwright, Mbongeni Ngema, and the hottest rising female vocalists in his new acclaimed blockbuster, The Zulu, which is billed for an overseas tour. The first show will be a celebration of the show's success and surely in her in-depth interview with King, she will get him to give her a few tips on how to become the best in the trade.

Mabuza-Suttle, the executive producer of the show, told City Press that leaving the SABC was like separating from a husband, but she loves change.

"Never be scared of change because it is dynamic, many people are afraid of change but I'm not. I took a big risk leaving South Africa before, to a country I did not know but I managed to carry on," said Mabuza-Suttle.

"I love working on so-called Cinderella projects, I want to make e.tv grow further and I'm looking forward to my new job," added Mabuza-Suttle.

She packed her bags and left the SABC three weeks ago, as it was speculated a month earlier while she was on holiday in the US.

Mabuza-Suttle said although there will be a few changes in her new show on e.tv, it will almost have the same presentation format.

She said the show will deal with more current issues but will also be entertaining and motivating.

According to Mabuza-Suttle, Ngema has been roped in to compose the signature for the new show.

She denied rumours there was acrimony between herself and the SABC and said she recently had lunch with SABC top brass, including Enoch Sithole.
